This rehearsal will be given largely to male chorus numbers. It has been arranged for the audience and chorus to sing "America" at the end of the first night's program, June 7, and "The Star Spangled Banner" at the end of the last night's program, June 8.

Evidently the fame of the recently organized Barre Scottish Bagpipe and Drum band, which made its local debut in the patriotic parade May 19, is spreading rapidly, for the manager, A. W. Cormack, has received several requests for the services of the band in outside towns. Among them is an invitation from a committee in Waterbury, which is planning to stage a long parade and patriotic celebration June 9. The invitation has been accepted. Recently the band elected the following officers: President, Thomas McDonald; vice president, Alfred Milne; pipe major, Isaac Riddell; band sergeant, Eustace Ritchie; manager, Alex. W. Cormack. The band is rehearsing regularly and expects to perform on several public occasions in Barre this year.

Solicitors representing the Barre Board of Trade and the Barre Merchants' association, Inc., were busy yesterday in canvassing funds for the entertainment of the National Association of Cemetery Superintendents, which is to meet in this city in August. To care for the visitors some 500 in number, and to provide various enjoyable outings to go with their business meeting, upward of $5,000 is to be expended by local committees. Thus far there has been a very liberal response from the business men along the street. Granite manufacturers and quarries are to contribute liberally and when all sources have been heard from it is expected that the necessary fund will be in hand. Committees in charge of many of the details for the convention are meeting regularly.

The last of a series of monthly get-together meetings, conducted during the winter and spring months by the Men's club of the First Presbyterian church, will be held Monday evening, when Rev. Francis H. Laird, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Barre, will give an address on the subject, "A Great American Who Went Wrong and Came Right." Refreshments will be served after the address. It is expected that the monthly gatherings will be resumed in the fall.

Southward the course of the Standard Oil Co.'s motor road oiling machine makes its way and the application of oil which the city council bargained for early in the spring, is soon due, according to the announcement itinerary of the vehicle. St. Albans has been oiled and at last reports the oiler and its crew was making for Burlington, with Montpelier and Barre next in line. If there are any Americans seeking to dodge conscription by going to Canada they will find themselves confronted by a stone wall of Canadian and U. S. officials when they reach the border. Not very many days ago a well known Barre resident started for Ontario with the idea of attending a convention of professional men in Ontario. Although he was recognized by customs officers at St. Johns, P. Q., by whom he is known, he did not possess the proper credentials and was advised to return home, although the inspectors understood that his mission was an innocent one. Albert reports from the border say there has been no noticeable exodus of men of military age from the United States into Canada, due precautions are being taken and men of military age are not permitted to cross the line without permission from immigration inspectors representing both countries.

Much of the work of beautifying the city cemeteries, Hope and Elmwood, which has been under way since the snow disappeared, was undone by careless motorists Memorial day, according to the superintendent and Richmond yesterday, who have taken steps to ascertain who are responsible for the bulk of the damage. The use of automobiles in the two cemeteries is a practice that is in disfavor with many people at best, but the authorities have not seen fit to bar the machines and those who are accustomed to travel the cemetery avenues in motor cars have been trusted to use good judgment in directing their machines. On Memorial day, however, the greensward in both cemeteries was ruthlessly corrugated with heavy wheel tracks and in notable instances flower beds were almost wantonly torn up or otherwise ruined by cars. The commissioners are strongly disposed to put a taboo on motoring in the cemeteries and after their investigation is completed it is possible that a measure of this sort may be adopted.
